The album countdown is on! And in support, British alt-rock quartet Our Propaganda have kicked off 2022 releasing their fourth single 'My Ghosts'; an almighty soaring crescendo through from melancholy to anthemic choruses, with a haunting video to accompany: <https://li.sten.to/OPmyghosts>

"'My Ghosts' is about how your past comes back to haunt you in your darkest moments. It's about how sometimes, you never really let go of the problems you face as a young person. It's once again a song about accepting them as part of the person you've become. 'They'll never leave me but despite them I carry on'. It's about reconciling with painful memories and knowing that they're not the arbiter of how you go on." - Jack Denton, Our Propaganda

Taking influences from the likes of Biffy Clyro, Royal Blood, Twenty One Pilots and numerous iconic British artists, Our Propaganda have since 2016 been taking their striking blend of alt-indie rock to the stage, having previously gigged over half a dozen countries across Europe and played countless shows around London, the South of England and their hometowns of Southampton and Portsmouth, including five years' consecutive invitation to the stage of Southampton Pride.

With 2022 ahead, and debut album release in their sights, Our Propaganda took Autumn 2021 to lay the foundations for their journey, signing a publishing deal with Peermusic followed by releasing debut single 'Fast Food at Midnight' in September [<https://youtu.be/aaA18pl0bz0>], 'Summer In Herrenberg' in October [<https://bit.ly/3Dzg02D>], and 'Essential Love' in December [<http://smarturl.it/OPessentiallove>], as well as headlining the near one-thousand cap 1865 in their hometown of Southampton, marking their triumphant return to music. What lies ahead is the build up to their debut album release, recorded with renowned producer Steve Lyon (Depeche Mode/The Cure), and mixed by Grammy nominated recording and sound engineer Jonas Westling.

Our Propaganda is Jack Denton, Harvey Groom, Joe Newman and Charlie Denton, and their fourth single 'My Ghosts' can be watched / streamed worldwide now: <https://li.sten.to/OPmyghosts>
